NATIONAL MINE OFFICIAL TO ADJUST DIFFERENCES

Strike at Charleroi Coal Works Has Not Assumed Serious Proportions

USE OF BLACK POWDER

Miners Think They Should be Compensated for Extra Cost of New Explosives

National Vice President McCullough of the United Mine Workers, came to Charleroi yesterday and with Superintendent Jesse K. Johnston of the Charleroi Coal Works is in Pittsburgh today, to get facts that will aid in the settling of the strike that is now on at the Charleroi Works. This strike which has not assumed any serious proportions, was declared several days ago. It is thought that with the coming of the National vice president that affairs will be so shaped up so that in a few days, likely by next week, the miners will go back to work.

The cause of the strike is the contention over the use of explosives other than black powder. The use of these explosives is controlled by State Inspector Roel directly by the district inspectors, Mr. Howarth. The miners claim that the disadvantages from the use of these and of the extra costs and labor, afford them sufficient cause for complaint, and think they should be compensated for the extra trouble and expense.

The contentions arose about two months ago, when the new explosives were put in use. Messrs. McCullough and Johnson, it is stated, are of the other explosives, and in the settlement of the strike, it is thought, the result of these tests will hinge largely.

It is the opinion of the miners that the strike will be settled within the next week.

Bitten by a Dog.
A child whose name could not be learned was bitten by a dog at Crest avenue and Tenth street today. The case will likely be investigated, as the owners of the dog refused to give it up to be killed.

Memorial Day.

Two score years ago, when the turf was just beginning to green over the graves of the dead soldiers of the Civil War, children first picked flowers to deck the last resting place of the Nation's defenders. Then the survivors of that war, men who were in their twenties and thirties, with their shoulders still squared from the daily drill, were decidedly on the stage of action. Now they are old men, bent, white-haired, and yearly answering to the last roll call. The children who first strewed flowers on the graves of the dead heroes are themselves today gray-headed and gray bearded.

Neither age nor waning strength, however, has obliterated in the least measure the great debt of gratitude the Republic owes to those who gave their best that the Nation might live. Our country still looks on both the survivors and the graves of her dead in triumphant youth. With growing strength, power, might and knowledge, the Republic has still tender memory and unforgotten tears for those that are gone, and glory for those that remain. That her dead did not die in vain is written indelibly in the annals that deal with the uplift of humanity, and this sentiment waxed stronger "as the aeons unfold."

So with each recurring day of memory and sorrow and tribute to the dead comes a fuller appreciation of the sacrifices that laid deep the foundations of a triumphant future. What was begun when the graves were a fresh scar in the bosom of the earth, when grief was real and poignant, is now the hope that each succeeding Memorial Day will find a grateful Republic nearer the destiny for which the great conflict was waged.

The Oldest Protestant Church

The dedication of the new Lutheran church here tomorrow serves to call attention to the antiquity of this denomination. While the Christian or Disciple church is making preparations to celebrate the first centennial anniversary of its existence, the Lutheran church is very near to its fourth centennial anniversary. It is, in fact, the parent church of all Protestant denominations, the church of the great Luther himself, the founder of Protestantism.

Now, when religious matters are no longer a question of animosity between those who hold opposing beliefs, the greatness of Martin Luther is recognized and appreciated. He was emphatically a man of the people, and the most faithful and original type of the German national character. His virtues and faults were always on the surface, and there never was attributed to him any secret or double motive in his conduct. His views regarding popular education apply with the same force today that they did four hundred years ago. "It is a grave and serious thing," he says, "that we apply ourselves to the work of aiding and instructing the young. Why else do we elder persons live but to take care of the young, to teach and train them? God has committed them to us who are old and have experience, and He will call us to a strict account. How can reason and charity allow the youth to grow up uneducated to become a poison and pestilence, corrupting a whole town?"

The dedication of the new church here tomorrow is a happy event, and it is one of the countless incidents that emphasizes the triumphant endurance of divine truth.

Old Time Temperance.

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V. in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the noble members of that society were bound by a pledge good for two years not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whisky on the side. By this ideal of abstinence may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old times when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Hillquit in Socialism.

His Walking Papers.

"My sister 'll be down in a minute," said little Clarence, who was entertaining the young man in the parlor. "I heard her tellin' maw a little while ago that she was goin' to give you your written permission to perambulate tonight. What do you reckon she meant by that?"

"I think I know, Clarence," said the young man, reaching for his hat. "You may tell her, if you please, that I have decided not to wait for it."—Exchange.

Parliamentary Procedure.

"How about my letter of proposal?" demanded the young congressman. "It has been advanced to a second reading," answered the haughty Washington belle.—Kansas City Journal.

To draw a caricature of our contemporaries is not difficult. It requires only a small portion of talent and a great want of courtesy.—Disraeli.

WILD ELEPHANTS.

A Herd's Successful Raid on a Granary in Ceylon.

Some soldiers stationed at an outpost in Ceylon, says a Colombo paper, to protect a granary containing a large quantity of rice were sent off a few miles to quiet some unruly villagers. Only two of the party remaining behind. No sooner had the soldiers departed than a herd of wild elephants, which had long been wandering about the neighborhood, appeared in front of the granary. Its walls were of solid brickwork, very thick, and the only opening into the building was in the center of the roof, which was reached by a ladder. On the approach of the elephants the two men clambered up into a lofty banyan tree to escape injury. Screened by the thick foliage, though unseen by the elephants, they easily saw all that went on below. The sagacious animals began operations at the corners of the building. Two powerful elephants, after putting forth every effort, but in vain, to make an impression on the building, were forced to retire exhausted. A third came forward, and, applying his tusks as levers, he at length succeeded in dislodging a single brick. An opening once made, others of the herd advanced, and soon an entrance was obtained sufficiently large to admit them. As the whole company could not be accommodated at once, they divided into small groups of three or four. After satisfying themselves they retired and gave place to others until the whole herd, upward of twenty, had made a full meal. By this time a shrill sound was heard from one of the elephants, and those still in the granary rushed out and joined their companions. One of the first divisions, after leaving the building, had acted as sentinel while the others were taking their turn. He had perceived the troops returning from the village and gave the signal for retreat, when the whole herd, flourishing their trunks, moved rapidly into the jungle.

The soldiers found the animals had devoured the greater part of the rice. A ball from a fieldpiece was discharged at them in their retreat, but they only wagged their tails as if in mockery and were soon hidden in the recesses of their native forests.

Caught Bending.

Professor Cube Root's class of geometrical geniuses were receiving instructions. They were first taught that a circle was a thing like this—O. They then learned that a straight line was one without wabbles in it, so —

"Now, boys," said Professor Root, "can any of you describe to me what a half circle is like?"

Up shot half a dozen grasping hands.

"Well, Teddy," said Professor Root, "let's hear your definition of a half circle first."

"Please, sir," answered Teddy, "it's a straight line caught bending."—London Express.

Knew He Was Safe.

"You seem to be going home in a very cheerful manner for a man who has been out all night."

"Yes, you see, my wife is an amateur elocutionist, and she's saving her voice for an entertainment tomorrow night."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

As He Remembered It.

"Shadbolt, did you ever have a touch of anything like the appendicitis?"

"Once. Have you forgotten, Dingus, that when you were operated on for it you touched me for an even hundred?"—Chicago Tribune.

FOR RECORDER

IN ANNO UNCIING my candidacy for the nomination of County Recorder, I do so by stating that I have never been favored, either with an elective or an appointed position in this county, and I have never given support, nor encouragement in any campaign to any other than candidates of the Republican Party, from whose hosts I am now seeking the honorable position above named. I have long been a resident of the Monongahela Valley, and for more than one hundred and twenty years my ancestors have been taxpayers and residents of that section of the county.

While no new issues or questions are likely to be advanced in the coming campaign other than fitness and capability of the applicants, I wish to say that I stand as I have always done, for the broad principles of Republicanism and will always be ready to champion every policy of reform involving a higher standard of politics.

On one or two occasions I have permitted my name to be withdrawn from political contests for the sake of the party harmony, but after being active in aiding others for almost a score of years in reaching the goal of their ambitions, I am now presenting myself for the first time as a candidate for the office of County Recorder, for which primaries will be held June 5th, 1909.

JOHN H. MOFFITT
CHARLEROI, PA.

A Personal Statement

To The Republican Voters of Washington County.

One week remains of the campaign before the nominations next Saturday, June 5th. As a candidate for the office of Recorder of Deeds I have made an effort to see as many of the Republican voters, as my time and money would justify; some I have not seen, but I have endeavored to reach all in some way or other if not personally, through letters and the public newspapers. I have conducted my canvass in a friendly way in my relation with the other aspirants for this office. I recognize that it is the right of any man in the party to aspire to any of the offices which are at the disposal of the people.

During the last days of the campaign I want to thank my friends who have and are working for me and ask them to continue their personal efforts up until the closing of the polls. While much has been rumored and written concerning the line-up of the different factions of the party in the campaign for Recorder, I want to state that I am not identified with any faction, but have been, and am conducting my campaign on my merits.

I want to be Recorder and secure all the votes I can. My nomination will strengthen the party in the county because if elected I will not use the office to build up any faction or to make it a political factor. I propose, if nominated and elected to the office to which I aspire to conduct it as a business man would conduct his own business having an eye single to the interests of those whom I will be called upon to serve.

I want to make a record for myself in this office by a business-like administration, courteous and fair treatment to all and to make it an office which will in no sense of the word be political. I feel that I have made a straightforward appeal to the voters of this county, have made no deals, have negotiated with no factions for support, but have placed my candidacy with the rank and file—the men who go to the polls and vote their convictions and if nominated my victory will be one of the people and of no political faction. Again soliciting the support of the voters of the county, I am, respectfully yours,

J. C. Sutherland.

When a man is buying his summer footwear he likes to have the game as well as the name. In many cases he doesn't—simply because most shoe stores show the same old oxfords made up in the same old way. It's different here: when we say new styles we mean new. We have the latest ideas in lasts, patterns and materials copied from the ultra-fashionable lasts of the swell custom boot-makers. Our oxfords are classy and you might just as well have the new and fashionable effects as some old hand-me-down

ANCIENT BELLS.

They Were Often Quadrangular and Made of Thin Iron Plates.

There are several old bells in Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The oldest are often quadrangular, being made of thin iron plates which have been hammered and riveted together. At the monastery of St. Gall in Switzerland the four sided bell of the Irish missionary St. Gall, who lived in the seventh century, is still preserved, but more ancient still is the bell of St. Patrick in Belfast, which is ornamented with gold and gems and silver filigree work.

The curfew bell is that about which most has been written and said. It has been thought that it was only used in England, but it was quite common on the continent in the middle ages.

The ringing of bells by rope is still very popular in England, especially in the country, where almost every hamlet, however small, has its church with its peal of bells, which are often remarkably well rung. The first real peal of bells in England was sent by Pope Calixtus III. to King's college, Cambridge, and was for 300 years the largest peal in England. About the beginning of the year 1500 sets of eight bells were hung in a few of the large churches.

In the middle of the seventeenth century a man named White wrote a famous work on bells in which he introduced the system of numbering them 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., on slips of paper in different orders, according to the changes intended to be rung. It is calculated that to ring all the changes upon twenty-four bells at two strokes a second would take 117 billion years.

One of the most famous bells in the world is the first great bell of Moscow, which now stands in the middle of a square in that city and is used as a chapel. This bell was cast in 1733, but was in the earth for over a hundred years, being raised in 1836 by the Emperor Nicholas. It is nearly twenty feet high, has a circumference of sixty feet, is two feet thick and weighs almost 200 tons. The second Moscow bell, which is the largest bell in the world that is actually in use, weighs 128 tons. There are several bells extant which weigh ten tons and over, of which Big Ben, the largest bell in England, weighing between thirteen and fourteen tons, is one. Big Ben is unfortunately cracked.—London Globe.

Prospects Brilliant.

"I see you got married yesterday, Chipe. Are your prospects brilliant?" "Yaas. Mah husband's friends brought me to 'mo' washin's."—Circle Magazine.

HISTORY ON A TUSK.

Picture Made by a Cave Man Millions of Years Ago.

Long ago, so long that even a scientist would hardly dare venture a guess as to the date, a man clad with only a wild beast's skin about his loins was sitting at the mouth of a cave in one of the rocky highlands in what is now southern France. He was scratching with a sharp flint on the fragments of an ivory tusk, perhaps picturing for some youthful admirers adventures through which he had passed or animals he had slain. That ivory chip was stored away as a treasure, to be lost and forgotten after the cave man's death. One day a man named Lartet, digging in the cavern floor, found it. On it was scratched a very fair representation of the hairy elephant, probably at once the oldest picture and the oldest human record in existence.

We know the cave man was a faithful workman, for the melting ice fields of Siberia have yielded a perfect specimen of this extinct mammal, and the paleolithic picture is a true copy. Not only has this ancient sculptor given us a sample of the earliest art, but he has left us, more valuable than all, a historical record of his time, for this rude picture is simply a page from the cave man's history which, translated into twentieth century English, says, "Men, thinking men, were contemporaneous with the hairy elephant."

No record that any of humankind have ever left is half so ancient as this. The oldest Egyptian papyrus is a thing of yesterday compared to this paleolithic sculpture. While the cave man was living in Europe the valley of the Nile was yet only a wild waste. Egypt was not yet Egypt, and civilization as we know it had scarcely made a beginning.—Lippincott's.

Sny on the Son.

"But I do not know the candidate," said an old Yorkshire farmer who was appealed to for his vote.

"But you know his father?"

"Yes, I know him, and he's a grand man."

"Then you will surely vote for his son, won't you?"

But the old farmer was still doubtful.

"I'm no so sure about that," he replied; "it's no every coo that has a cauff like hersel."—Liverpool Mercury.

Queer, but Expressive.

A Danish girl who has recently come to this country to take a course in trained nursing was complaining to a friend the other morning of having overslept herself. "And no reason why such a thing should befall me, for I had—what do you call it in English? I know, a sleep watch—all set."—Washington Star.

No Other Candidate for Recorder
So Well Equipped as Alex. D. Young

ALEX. D. YOUNG

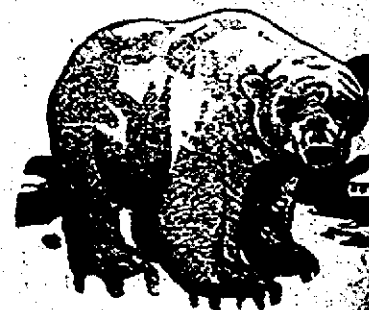

Alex. D. Young, candidate for the Republican nomination for Recorder of Washington county, is too well known to need formal introduction. His long service in the Recorder's office as deputy has brought him into close touch with the public and the uniformly courteous treatment accorded patrons of the office during his term of service has made him many substantial friends who are eager to rally to his support in the contest to be settled at the June primaries.

In point of qualifications no other candidate is so well equipped. Not another man in Washington county so well understands how to conduct the business of the office and there is no more deserving candidate. While at no time in his career has Mr. Young been identified with factional politics, he has at all times since attaining his majority been a strict adherent to the principles of the party of his choice.

On his record as deputy recorder, established by many years of faithful service and on his record for party regularity Mr. Young solicits the support of Washington county Republicans.

Waiting Her Choice.

"But," pleads the ardent young millionaire, who has secured the license to marry the beautiful chorus girl, "why should we postpone our marriage for two weeks? We can just as well run around to the minister, have the ceremony performed and start on our honeymoon."

"It looks all right from where you sit," she interrupts him. "But I wouldn't even get a look in for press notices, if I got married this week while all those grand opera stars are taking up the space. Pet, the best wedding notice we'd get would be a line in the vital statistics."—Chicago Post.

A Farewell Party.

A number of the ladies of Branch No. 782 L. C. B. A. assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finkbeiner of Washington avenue Thursday evening to bid her farewell. The Finkbeiners expect to move to Donora next Tuesday. Mrs. Finkbeiner being the second vice president of the branch and an active and faithful member, it behooved the ladies to wish her success in her new abiding place. The evening was most pleasantly spent in playing euchre and other games. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. Finkbeiner was the recipient of an L. C. B. A. pin, the gift of the ladies in attendance. The ladies departed for their homes showering good wishes on the family.

PRESIDENT TAFT MAY COME TO CHARLEROI

Is Invited to Monessen, and if he Makes That Trip, Will in all Probability Come Here.

It is not altogether unlikely that President William H. Taft will come to Monessen Monday after his visit to Pittsburgh today and Sunday. He is coming to the Smoky City for the annual banquet and reunion of the Pittsburgh Yale Alumni association.

Before his return to Washington Colonel J. M. M. Schoonmaker hopes to visit him at the Monongahela valley as far as Monessen to visit the Pittsburgh Steel company. General Superintendent George Nash is in Michigan at present, but expects to return today in time to get in conference with Colonel Schoonmaker regarding the proposed visit of President Taft to that place.

The invitation has been extended and may be the President will find time to accept. If he does come a special train will carry the guests of Mr. Schoonmaker and a stop of a few hours will be made at the Pittsburgh Steel company's plant. Definite announcement regarding the proposed visit cannot be made until President Taft is consulted in Pittsburgh.

In case President Taft comes to Monessen, it is proposed to bring him to Charleroi, the home of Congressman Tener of the Twenty-Fourth district, in an automobile. He would not have much time to remain here, but in case he makes the visit he would be tendered a great ovation.

AN ISSUE OF NEW STAMPS

Postmaster Branagan The First in Section to Secure Them.

WILL BE ON SALE TUESDAY

Bear Words "Alaska, Yukon, Pacific 1909"—Beautiful In Design.

Postmaster J. E. Branagan is probably the first in this section to receive the new postage stamp of special design, which the department has issued to commemorate the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition. Through a personal friend in the department Mr. Branagan made a request when he filed his requisition that the first invoice be sent him. The invoice arrived this morning, although the stamps cannot be placed on sale until Tuesday, June 1.

This stamp is red in color, of two cents denomination, rectangular in shape and larger in size than the regular stamp. At the top and bottom are panels containing respectively the words "U. S. Postage," and "Two Cents." In the center the large part of a circle rests on the lower panel and incloses a ribbon bearing the words "Alaska-Yukon-Pacific 1909," and in the center of the circle appears a portrait of William H. Seward, who as Secretary of State conducted the negotiations for the purchase of Alaska from Russia. The name "William H. Seward" appears under the portrait. On either side is an ellipse containing the Arabic numeral 2 with laurel branches as a background.

The stamp is very artistic in design, and will be highly valued as souvenirs by collectors.

The Beauty "Spot" the Talk of New York.

Comstock and Gest's "Beauty Spot" still holds the boards at the popular Herald Square Theatre, Broadway, New York. Nightly the audience greets the song hit of the show, "He Loved a Maiden Tender," with uproars of applause.

The song is attracting so much attention that the New York Sunday World has arranged with Jos. W. Stern and Co., the publishers, to give it away with next Sunday's World, words and music complete. Don't fail to get it.

Will Meet President Taft.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beigel, as members of Rodef Sholem congregation in Pittsburg, of which Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy is the Rabbi have received an invitation to be present on the occasion of the presence at the temple this morning of President Taft. Mrs. Beigel and Mrs. Teitelbaum attended the services this morning.

NATIONAL MINE OFFICIAL TO ADJUST DIFFERENCES

Commissioners Inspect Road

Go Carefully Over Monongahela and Donora Highway Yesterday.

The county commissioners yesterday inspected the road between Monongahela and Donora, for which a petition was entered in court some time ago, to have paved with brick. The inspection was made in company with a number of Monongahela people.

The commissioners examined the highway in a thorough manner and doubtless much will hinge on their report as to the success of the efforts of the Monongahela and Donora citizens.

The party arrived in Monongahela in the morning and left in carriages over the road. It took the greater part of the day for the inspection.

WELL KNOWN MAN WAS KILLED LAST NIGHT IN MINES

Heavy Slate Fall Proves Disastrous for Miner at Chamouni.

HAD SON IN CHARLEROI

Andrew Shebeck, a Slav of California and one of the best known foreigners in the valley, was fatally injured by a fall of slate in the Chamouni mines of the River Coal company across the river from California last night at about 10 o'clock. The man died at 2:30 o'clock this morning. He has a son, Andrew Shebeck, Jr., working in Charleroi.

The fall of slate was so heavy that it took a long time to free the man, and it was shortly after he was removed to his home that he died.

Dr. Paxton was called. The injuries which caused Shebeck's death were mainly about the chest. He has lived in Coal Centre for the past seventeen years.

Strike at Charleroi Coal Works Has Not Assumed Serious Proportions.

USE OF BLACK POWDER

Miners Think They Should Be Compensated for Extra Cost of New Explosives.

National Vice President McCullough of the United Mine Workers, came to Charleroi yesterday and with Superintendent Jesse K. Johnston of the Charleroi Coal Works is in Pittsburg today, to get facts that will aid in the settling of the strike that is now on at the Charleroi Works. This strike which has not assumed any serious proportions, was declared several days ago. It is thought that with the coming of the National vice president that affairs will be so shaped up so that in a few days, likely by next week, the miners will go back to work.

The cause of the strike is the contention over the use of explosives other than black powder. The use of these explosives was ordered by State Inspector Roebuck, and directly by the district inspector, Mr. Howarth. The miners claim that the disadvantages from the use of these and of the extra costs and labor, afford them sufficient cause for complaint, and think they should be compensated for the extra trouble and expense.

The contentions arose about two months ago, when the new explosives were put in use. Messrs. McCullough and Johnston, it is stated, are at the Arsenal at Pittsburg, Pa., to get other explosives, and in the settlement of the strike, it is thought, the result of these tests will hinge largely. It is the opinion of the miners that the strike will be settled within the next week.

Memorial Day.

Two score years ago, when the turf was just beginning to green over the graves of the dead soldiers of the Civil War, children first picked flowers to deck the last resting place of the Nation's defenders. Then the survivors of that war, men who were in their twenties and thirties, with their shoulders still squared from the daily drill, were decidedly on the stage of action. Now they are old men, bent, white-haired, and yearly answering to the last roll call. The children who first strewed flowers on the graves of the dead heroes are themselves today gray-headed and gray bearded.

Neither age nor waning strength, however, has obliterated in the least measure the great debt of gratitude the Republic owes to those who gave their best that the Nation might live. Our country still looks on both the survivors and the graves of her dead in triumphant youth. With growing strength, power, might and knowledge, the Republic has still tender memory and unforgotten tears for those that are gone, and glory for those that remain. That her dead did not die in vain is written indelibly in the annals that deal with the uplift of humanity, and this sentiment waxed stronger "as the aeons unfold."

So with each recurring day of memory and sorrow and tribute to the dead comes a fuller appreciation of the sacrifices that laid deep the foundations of a triumphant future. What was begun when the graves were a fresh scar in the bosom of the earth, when grief was real and poignant, is now the hope that each succeeding Memorial Day will show a grater Republic nearer the destiny for which the great conflict was waged.

The Oldest Protestant Church

attention to the antiquity of this denomination. While the Christian or Disciple church is making preparations to celebrate the first centennial anniversary of its existence, the Lutheran church is very near to its fourth centennial anniversary. It is, in fact, the parent church of all Protestant denominations, the church of the great Luther himself, the founder of Protestantism.

Now, when religious matters are no longer a question of animosity between those who hold opposing beliefs, the greatness of Martin Luther is recognized and appreciated. He was emphatically a man of the people, and the most faithful and original type of the German national character. His virtues and faults were always on the surface, and there never was attributed to him any secret or double motive in his conduct. His views regarding popular education apply with the same force today that they did four hundred years ago.

"It is a grave and serious thing," he says, "that we apply ourselves to the work of aiding and instructing the young. Why else do we elder persons live but to take care of the young, to teach and train them? God has committed them to us who are old and have experience, and He will call us to a strict account. How can reason and charity allow the youth to grow up uneducated to become a poison and pestilence, corrupting a whole town?"

The dedication of the new church here tomorrow is a happy event, and it is one of the countless incidents that emphasize the triumphant endurance of divine truth.

Old Time Temperance.

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V. in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the noble members of that society were bound by a pledge good for two years not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whisky on the side. By this ideal of abstinence may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old times when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Billquit in Socialism.

His Walking Papers.

"My sister 'll be down in a minute," said little Clarence, who was entertaining the young man in the parlor. "I heard her tellin' maw a little while ago that she was goin' to give you your written permission to perambulate tonight. What do you reckon she meant by that?"

"I think I know, Clarence," said the young man, reaching for his hat. "You may tell her, if you please, that I have decided not to wait for it."—Exchange.

Irate Parent—"So you think my daughter loves you, sir, and you wish to marry her? Young Lover—That's what I called to see you about. And if you don't mind I thought I'd just ask first if there is any insanity in your family. Irate Parent—No, sir, and there's not going to be any.—London Express.

Parliamentary Procedure.

"Now about my letter of proposal," demanded the young congressman. "It has been advanced to a second reading," answered the haughty Washington belle.—Kansas City Journal.

To draw a caricature of our contemporaries is not difficult. It requires only a small portion of talent and a great want of courtesy.—Disraeli.

An attendance of 436 tomorrow will make our average for the three months an even 400. A. M. Doak, minister.

WILD ELEPHANTS.

A Herd's Successful Raid on a Granary in Ceylon.

Some soldiers stationed at an outpost in Ceylon, says a Colombo paper, to protect a granary containing a large quantity of rice were sent off a few miles to quiet some unruly villagers, only two of the party remaining behind. No sooner had the soldiers departed than a herd of wild elephants, which had long been wandering about the neighborhood, appeared in front of the granary. Its walls were of solid brickwork, very thick, and the only opening into the building was in the center of the roof, which was reached by a ladder. On the approach of the elephants the two men clambered up into a lofty banyan tree to escape injury. Screamed by the thick foliage though unseen by the elephants, they easily saw all that went on below. The sagacious animals began operations at the corners of the building. Two powerful elephants, after putting forth every effort, but in vain, to make an impression on the building, were forced to retire exhausted. A third came forward, and applying his tusks as levers, he at length succeeded in dislodging a single brick. An opening once made, others of the herd advanced, and soon an entrance was obtained sufficiently large to admit them. As the whole company could not be accommodated at once, they divided into small groups of three or four. After satisfying themselves they retired and gave place to others until the whole herd, upward of twenty, had made a full meal. By this time a shrill sound was heard from one of the elephants, and those still in the granary rushed out and joined their companions. One of the first divisions, after leaving the building, had acted as sentinel while the others were taking their turn. He had perceived the troops returning from the village and gave the signal for retreat, when the whole herd, flourishing their trunks, moved rapidly into the jungle.

The soldiers found the animals had devoured the greater part of the rice. A ball from a fieldpiece was discharged at them in their retreat, but they only wagged their tails as if in mockery and were soon hidden in the recesses of their native forests.

Caught Bending.

Professor Cube Root's class of geometrical geniuses were receiving instructions. They were first taught that a circle was a thing like this—O. They then learned that a straight line was one without wabbles in it, so—
"Now, boys," said Professor Root, "can any of you describe to me what a half circle is like?"
"Well, Teddy," said Professor Root, "let's hear your definition of a half circle first."

"Please, sir," answered Teddy, "it's a straight line caught bending."—London Express.

Knew He Was Safe.

"You seem to be going home in a very cheerful manner for a man who has been out all night."

"Yes, you see, my wife is an amateur elocutionist, and she's saving her voice for an entertainment tomorrow night."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

As He Remembered It.

"Shadbolt, did you ever have a touch of anything like the appendicitis?"

"Once. Have you forgotten, Dingus, that when you were operated on for it you touched me for an even hundred?"—Chicago Tribune.

FOR RECORDER

IN ANNOUNCING my candidacy for the nomination of County Recorder,

I do so by stating that I have never been favored, either with an elective or an appointed position in this county, and I have never given support, nor encouragement in any campaign to any other than candidates of the Republican Party, from whose hosts I am now seeking the honorable position above named. I have long been a resident of the Mon-gahela Valley, and for more than one hundred and twenty years my ancestors have been taxpayers and residents of that section of the county.

While no new issues or questions are likely to be advanced in the coming campaign other than fitness and capability of the applicants, I wish to say that I stand as I have always done, for the broad principles of Republicanism and will always be ready to champion every policy of reform involving a higher standard of public life.

On one or two occasions I have permitted my name to be withdrawn from political contests for the sake of the party harmony, but after being active in aiding others for almost a score of years in reaching the goal of their ambitions, I am now presenting myself for the first time as a candidate for the office of County Recorder, for which primaries will be held June 5th, 1909.

What the Sample Shoe Store Offers to Men

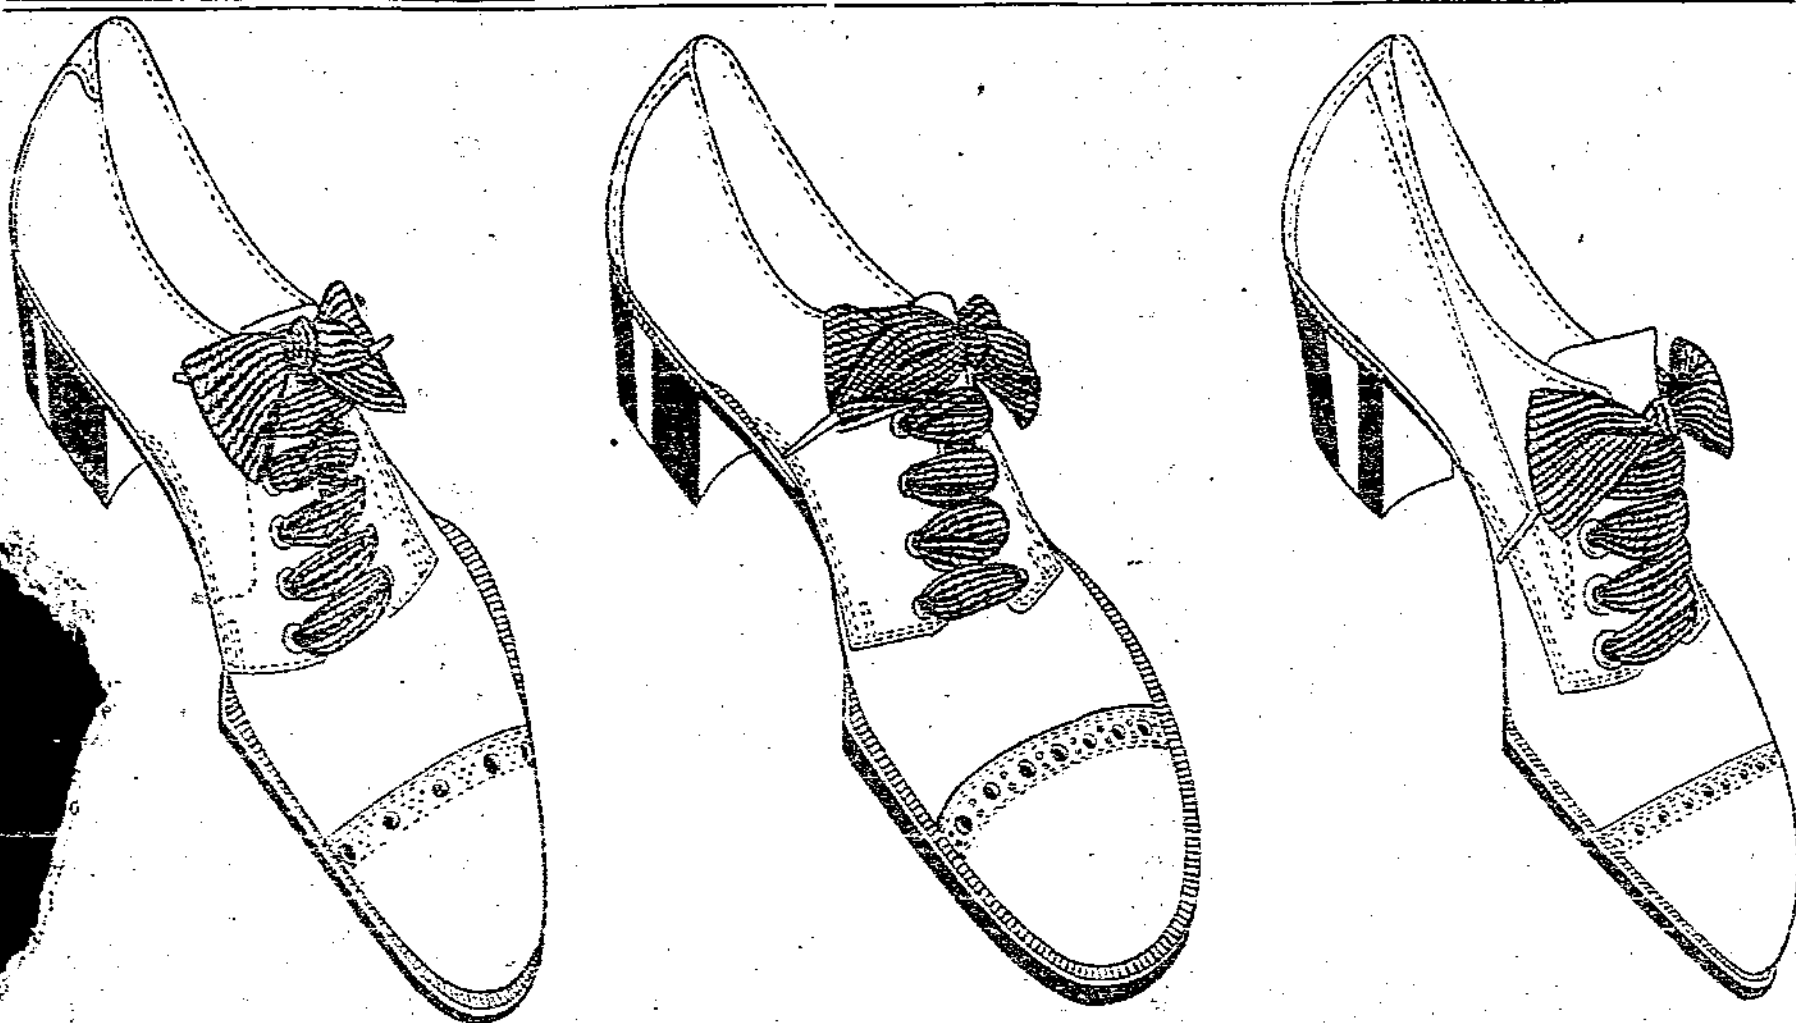

When a man is buying his summer footwear he likes to have the game as well as the name. In many cases he doesn't—simply because most shoe stores show the same old oxfords made up in the same old way. It's different here: when we say new styles we mean new. We have the latest ideas in lasts, patterns and materials copied from the ultra-fashionable lasts of the swell custom boot-makers. Our oxfords are classy and you might just get some of the latest fashionable effects as some old hand-me-down

No Other Candidate for Recorder So Well Equipped as Alex. D. Young

ALEX. D. YOUNG

Alex. D. Young, candidate for the Republican nomination for Recorder of Washington county, is too well known to need for introduction. His long service in the Recorder's office as deputy has brought him into close touch with the public and the uniformly courteous treatment accorded patrons of the office during his term of service has made him many substantial friends who are eager to rally to his support in the contest to be settled at the June primaries.

In point of qualifications no other candidate is so well equipped. Not another man in Washington county's well known is how to conduct the business of the office and there is no more deserving candidate. While at no time in his career has Mr. Young been involved with national politics, he has at all times since attaining his majority been a strict adherent to the principles of the party of his choice.

On his record as deputy recorder, established by many years of faithful service and on his record for party regularity Mr. Young solicits the support of Washington county Republicans.

ANCIENT BELLS.

They Were Often Quadrangular and Made of Thin Iron Plates.

There are several old bells in Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The oldest are often quadrangular, being made of thin iron plates which have been hammered and riveted together. At the monastery of St. Gall in Switzerland the four-sided bell of the Irish missionary, St. Gall, who lived in the seventh century, is still preserved, but more ancient still is the bell of St. Patrick in Belfast, which is ornamented with gold and gems and silver filigree work.

The curfew bell is that about which most has been written and said. It has been thought that it was only used in England, but it was quite common on the continent in the middle ages.

The ringing of bells by rope is still very popular in England, especially in the country, where almost every hamlet, however small, has its church with its peal of bells, which are often remarkably well rung. The first peal of bells in England was sent by Pope Calixtus III. to King's college, Cambridge, and was for 300 years the largest peal in England. About the beginning of the year 1500 sets of eight bells were hung in a few of the large churches.

In the middle of the seventeenth century a man named White wrote a famous work on bells in which he introduced the system of numbering them 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., on slips of paper in different orders, according to the changes intended to be rung. It is calculated that to ring all the changes upon twenty-four bells at two strokes a second would take 117 billion years.

One of the most famous bells in the world is the first great bell of Moscow, which now stands in the middle of a square in that city and is used as a chapel. This bell was cast in 1733, but was in the earth for over a hundred years, being raised in 1836 by the Emperor Nicholas. It is nearly twenty feet high, has a circumference of sixty feet, is two feet thick and weighs almost 200 tons. The second Moscow bell, which is the largest bell in the world that is actually in use, weighs 128 tons. There are several bells extant which weigh ten tons and over, of which Big Ben, the largest bell in England, weighing between thirteen and fourteen tons, is one. Big Ben is due to be replaced by a new bell.

HISTORY ON A TUSK.

Picture Made by a Cave Man Millions of Years Ago.

Long ago, so long that even a scientist would hardly dare venture a guess as to the date, a man clad with only a wild beast's skin about his loins was sitting at the mouth of a cave in one of the rocky highlands in what is now southern France. He was scratching with a sharp flint on the fragments of an ivory tusk, perhaps picturing for some youthful admirers adventures through which he had passed or ailments he had slain. That ivory chip was stored away as a treasure, to be lost and forgotten after the cave man's death. One day a man named Larlet, digging in the cavern floor, found it. On it was scratched a very fair representation of the hairy elephant, probably at once the oldest picture and the oldest human record in existence.

We know the cave man was a faithful workman, for the melting ice fields of Siberia have yielded a perfect specimen of this extinct mammal, and the paleolithic picture is a true copy. Not only has this ancient sculptor given us a sample of the earliest art, but he has left us, more valuable than all, a historical record of his time, for this rude picture is simply a page from the cave man's history which, translated into twentieth century English, says, "Men, thinking men, were contemporaneous with the hairy elephant."

No record that any of humankind have ever left is half so ancient as this. The oldest Egyptian papyrus is a thing of yesterday compared to this paleolithic sculpture. While the cave man was living in Europe the valley of the Nile was yet only a wild waste. Egypt was not yet Egypt, and civilization as we know it had scarcely made a beginning. —Lippincott's.

Say on the Son.

"But I do not know the candidate," said an old Yorkshire farmer who was appealed to for his vote.

"But you know his father!" "Yes, I know him, and he's a grand man."

"Then you will surely vote for his son, won't you?"

But the old farmer was still doubtful.

"I'm no so sure about that," he replied, "it's no every coo that has a canful like hers!" —Liverpool Mercury.

Queer, but Expressive.

A Danish girl who has recently come to this country to take a course in trained nursing, was complaining to a friend the other morning of having overslept herself. "And no reason why such a thing should befall me, for I had what do you call it in English? I know a sleep watch, all set." —Washington Star.

Waiting Her Choice.

"But," pleads the ardent young millionaire, who has secured the license to marry the beautiful chorus girl. "Why should we postpone our marriage for two weeks? We can just as well run around to the minister, have the ceremony performed and start on our honeymoon."

"It looks all right from where you sit," she interrupts him. "But I wouldn't even get a look in for press notices if I got married this week while all those grand opera stars are taking up the space. Let the best wedding notice we'd get would be a line in the vital statistics."—Chicago Post.
